

Shared Ownership Services for Developers

Shared Ownership Offers Win-Win Development Solutions

Shared Ownership Experts

We have worked in renewable energy development since 2011, with an emphasis on community energy and shared ownership. We know what works and how to make community-developer deals that are agreeable to both parties.

We understand the commercial difficulties that shared ownership poses to developers, and are ready to work with you to find an optimal solution.

Why Consider Shared Ownership?

Shared ownership is ever more important to renewable energy development in general. Whilst policy makers throughout the UK are increasingly leaning towards mandating shared ownership in larger scale projects, taking a proactive approach can also boost your planning prospects, and help foster a pro-renewables culture.

Our services for developers include:

Partnership Management

For some prospective projects, a successful partnership with a community can make all the difference. That's one reason why increasing numbers of developers are entering into shared ownership or joint venture arrangements with local community groups. Such partnerships can greatly improve your planning prospects, and are an excellent way to achieve genuine community support for your development.

Scene Consulting specialises in managing multiparty relationships, and are experts at facilitating partnerships with communities.

Community Engagement

Successful community engagement is becoming increasingly important in the UK renewables sector. However, few developers have the requisite time or expertise to carry out proper community engagement. Scene Consulting specialises in carrying out a comprehensive range of engagement services for developers that take local communities seriously. Our services include:

- Organising community- and public consultations
- Marketing investment opportunities in your projects
- Communicating and structuring benefit arrangements
- Liaising between you and local communities
